FR. JARETT'S CATHOLIC Q & A

What is Apologetics?

Sometimes the best way to define something is to first understand what it is not. I once had a Catholic professor who didn't like apologetics because he perceived it to be a "defense" of the Catholic faith, and he didn't believe the Catholic Church needed to be defended, (and certainly not by some punk college student) as though the Church cannot defend herself, as she has done for 2000 years. In some sense he was correct. Jesus tells us in scripture that the gates of hell shall never prevail against His Church, we can be confident of that; however apologetics is not acting as a defender of the Church for the Church's sake. Rather, it is learning to defend the faith of the Church, for our own benefit, for the benefit of our fellow Catholics, as well as for the good of those who would attack or even ask sincere questions about the Church.

Apologetics is not apologizing for being Catholic, even though we can tend towards that, especially in the sacrificial seasons of the Liturgical year. "Oh, I guess we are going to have to change our Friday lunch plans, since Jon 'the Catholic' is coming along."

Lastly, apologetics is not simply something for recent Protestant converts to do in order to make a living in the Catholic Church.

No, apologetics is fulfilling the command of St. Peter, when he wrote in his first letter, "Always be ready to give an explanation to anyone who asks you for a reason for your hope, but do it with gentleness and reverence." Apologetics is giving a reasoned explanation for your Catholic faith.

Is it important? Extremely. I am sure almost all of us know a Catholic who left the Church because they were unable to answer some of the most basic questions about the Catholic faith. Often, we as Catholic have not been prepared to answer common objections from our Protestant brothers and sisters about Catholic practice and doctrine, and are therefore filled with doubt in the truth of the Catholic Church.

Aren't priests responsible to teach more apologetics? Yes, and so are you. The Second Vatican Council in its Decree on the Apostolate of the Laity said, "This sacred Synod earnestly exhorts laymen and women, each according to his natural gifts and learning, to be more diligent in doing their part to explain and defend Christian principles." That is apologetics; and we are all responsible to do it. Obviously not all of us are to teach classes in the diocese or at our parish, but at least at home with our children and grandchildren.

So often, Catholics have been taught or learned through experience the "what," but are unable to explain "why" we do what we do, or believe what we believe.

Would you be able to explain to a fellow Catholic or a Protestant brother or sister about the biblical foundations for intercessory prayer through the saints? Or why priests are called Father? Would you have the knowledge to pose a question to a Protestant brother or sister why they believe the Bible to be the only source of authority? Or why they don't pray for the dead as St. Paul did?

If the answer is no, then let us pray and discern how God is desiring to lead us to first be students and then apologists in our homes, in our parishes, or maybe even in our diocese.

If you are interested in learning more about these types of questions, please contact me for a list of resources.

SALINA DIOCESE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Friends: the images of Puerto Rico coming to us in the news media are deeply disturbing. The power grid has collapsed from the hurricane and the humanitarian situation may be the worst yet of the multiple crises we have faced in recent weeks. I understand fully the financial strain I am asking many to undertake once again by contributing to help our brothers and sisters so greatly in need. However, not to provide you with an opportunity to be of help would be a grave lack of charity on my part. We will take up a collection on the weekend of Oct. 28 & 29, which will be disbursed by Catholic Charities USA. Checks should be made out to the name of your local parish. I also am asking that all members of the Salina Diocese pray the Novena for Victims of Natural Disasters printed below. It will begin on the weekend of Oct. 21 & 22 and conclude on the ninth day, Oct. 29. Whether you are able to make a monetary contribution or not I urge you to take part in our emergency spiritual assistance for our brothers and sisters so greatly in need. You are an exceptional people and I am deeply grateful for your goodness.

Bishop Edward J. Weisenburger

Lord God, we pray for those who have been devastated by recent natural disasters, especially the people of Puerto Rico, many of whom have lost everything and are now refugees from home. We remember those who have lost their lives so suddenly, and hold in our hearts the families forever changed by grief and loss. Bring them consolation and comfort. Surround them with our prayer for strength, and inspire us to perfect unity with them as our brothers and sisters. Bless those who have survived and grant them the strength and courage to face the long road of rebuilding their lives.

We ask too that you bless the work of relief agencies and those providing emergency assistance. May their efforts be guided by the grace and strength that comes from You alone. Help us to respond with generosity in prayer, in assistance, and in aid, to the best of our abilities. And keep our hearts focused on the needs of those affected, even after the crisis is over. We ask this in Jesus' name. Amen.
